KENTUCKY.

BY JAMES E. DORLAND.

The sun never shone on a country more fair
Than beautiful, peerless Kentucky;
There's life in a kiss of her rarified air,
Kentucky, moorland Kentucky;
Her sons are valiant and noble and bright,
Her beautiful daughters are just about right,
And her babies, God bless them, are clear out of sight—
That crop never fails in Kentucky.

Our homes are alight with a halo of love,
Kentucky, contented Kentucky;
We bask in the smiles of the heavens above,
No clouds ever darken Kentucky.
Our grain waves its billows of gold in the sun,
The fruits of our orchards are equaled by none,
And our pumpkins, some of them, weigh almost a ton—
We challenge the world in Kentucky.

Our girls are sweet models of maidenly grace
In this modern Eden, Kentucky;
They are perfect in figure and lovely in face,
That's just what they are in Kentucky.
Their smiles are bewitching and winning and sweet,
Then one of the sod of Kentucky,
A tribby would envy their cute little feet
In beautiful, peerless Kentucky.

When the burden of life I am called to lay down,
I hope I may die in Kentucky;
I never could ask a more glorious crown
Than one of the sod of Kentucky.
And when the last trump takes the land and the sea,
And the toms of the earth sets their prisoners free,
You may all go aloft, if you choose; but for me,
I think I'll just stay in Kentucky.

—James E. Dorland.

When Grandpa Was a Boy.

No auto cars went whizzing by
When grandpa was a boy;
No aeroplanes sailed to the sky
When grandpa was a boy;
The people did not live in flats,
There were no merry widow hats
And babies were not joining fairs
When grandpa was a boy.
They had no leg shows on the stage
When grandpa was a boy;
Bridge whist had not become the rage
When grandpa was a boy;
They flashed no messages through space,
The lady was not in disgrace
Who had a child around her place
When grandpa was a boy.
Waists were not buttoned down behind
When grandpa was a boy;
No meat trust socked it to mankind
When grandpa was a boy;
The country had no "Uncle Joe"
To say things should be thus or so,
No Aldrich to say yes or no,
When grandpa was a boy.

There were no shrieking suffragettes
When grandpa was a boy;
The ladies puffed no cigarettes
When grandpa was a boy;
When married women ran away
With married men they did not claim
To be affianced nor pray,
Therefore, to be absolved from blame,
When grandpa was a boy.

Death of Mr. Bond.

Mr. W. H. Bond, who for a number of years made his home at this place and who moved away from here about two years ago, died at his home in Lebanon last week of old age. He was buried in St. Dominic's cemetery below town Sunday morning.

Mr. Bond was a man who by his upright dealings and industry won the respect of those who knew him. He is survived by several sons and daughters, among the number being Messrs. John and Louis Bond and Mrs. Will McPherson, of this place.

Death of Mrs. Fox.

Mrs. Bridget Fox, who died at her home in Danville last week, was buried at St. Rose last Thursday afternoon. The deceased formerly resided in this county and was ninety-eight years of age. A number of friends and relatives from Central Kentucky accompanied the remains from Danville to this place.

Easter Sale.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will conduct an Easter Sale at the Court House, on Saturday, April 10. They will have for the public everything good to eat such as dressed chickens, hams, cakes, etc., in fact everything in the eating line. They will receive orders for anything you may want from now until the day of the sale. Leave all orders with Miss Minnie McClelland at Mrs. Williams' Millinery Store.

VanArsdale—Brackney.

Monday morning at 5:15 o'clock at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jas. R. Noe, Miss Lillian VanArsdale and Mr. Earl Brackney were united in marriage, Rev. R. E. C. Lawson performing the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brackney took the morning train for Louisville and thence to Columbus, Ohio, where they will make their home.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. VanArsdale and is one of the best known and most popular members of the younger social set in Springfield and vicinity. Mr. Brackney is a young business man of Columbus, O.

Saturday night Mrs. J. H. Hopper gave a linen shower in honor of the bride-to-be, which was a very happy occasion in every way.

Fire at Lebanon.

Lebanon was again a sufferer from fire yesterday morning, when the old Crume livery stable on Main street opposite the Norris house and several frame buildings adjoining were consumed. The fire originated in a confectionary at about 3 a. m. and before it could be gotten under control had spread to a shoe shop, a barber shop, the stable and other buildings.

The stable was owned by Dr. Mattingly and was formerly occupied by Crume Bros, as a livery stable. They had held their sale only the day before the fire, disposing of all their stock and vehicles so that there was but little in the stable to burn. It is reported that the building was insured.

Opening.

On Friday and Saturday, April 2 and 3, I will conduct my annual Spring Millinery Opening and will have on display for the inspection of the public, the latest Spring Styles in Ready-to-Wear, Trimmed and Pattern Hats, and many novelties used in the Millinery Line. Complete line of Shirt Waists. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

MRS. WILLIAMS.

Death of Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. W. T. Adams, one of the best known women of the Fenwick neighborhood, died at her home Monday morning. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Williams at the home of the deceased yesterday morning and the remains were interred in Bethlehem cemetery.

Mrs. Adams is survived by her husband, W. T. Adams, and several children, one of whom is Miss Ella Adams, the well known nurse.

Use Kentucky Star Flour to bake your cakes and make Biscuits. It's light, pure, white and healthful.

News of the Courts.

Last Friday an inquest was held before County Judge B. L. Litsey to determine the mental condition of Miss Roxana Lay, a young woman about 32 years of age and the daughter of Mr. Wm. M. Lay. After hearing the evidence introduced, including that of Miss Lay, the jury decided that her mind was unsound and the court ordered that she be sent to the asylum at Anchorage.

Last Thursday in the Springfield Police Court, Judge Noe presiding, Nad Hardin was given an examining hearing on the charge of maliciously shooting at Amos Twigg with intent to kill the said Amos. The court decided that there was not sufficient evidence to hold Nad over to the grand jury and dismissed the charge.

The same day Amos Twigg was tried for carrying concealed a deadly weapon. It was shown that Amos had a gun but did not have it concealed so the court gave peremptory instructions to the jury to find the defendant not guilty.

During the trial of Nad Attorney Grigsby held a court of inquiry and unearthed certain things that were not pleasant to some of the inhabitants of Hocker.

Mr. John R. Hardin, his wife and Jas. Lewis were tried before Judge B. L. Litsey charged with a breach of the peace but all three were acquitted.

Contest Brewing.

Lebanon Enterprise: If we read the signs afloat, a contest is brewing in the Eleventh judicial district that for fierceness and bitterness will have been unsurpassed in the history of the district and which the coming years may never see outcome. This condition is due to the unquestionable activity of an influence, prompted in the main by personal grievance, which is calculated to obliterate customary party lines and to drive men of life long affiliations to act independently. Under ordinary conditions, Judge Thurman's nomination by his own party, without opposition and in spite of this unwholesome influence, would mean his certainty to succeed himself without even a thought of an attempt by the Republican party to put a candidate in the field against him.

This state of affairs being indisputable, it becomes every good citizen to study the situation closely and to guard against being misled or deceived by the utterances of a few political hybrids who have personally, with no eye to justice, an axe to grind, and who to satisfy their thirst for swift revenge would not hesitate to sink the best friends they have and to hasten the burial of the very cause in which they are most directly interested.

Judge Thurman, the Democratic nominee, is, beyond doubt, one of the ablest lawyers in the state, and he established a reputation as such long before he sought to represent this district as its circuit judge. He is a self made man and one of the great common people whose cause his own early struggles taught him to revere. As the circuit judge of this district he has been faithful to his duty and to his oath and has made an officer, whose record as a whole is excellent. He has been fearless, rendering his decisions impartially under the law as he saw it. This virtue has drawn to him men of every denomination and of all political creeds and bound them to him by lasting ties. Such an officer as Judge Thurman has made is worthy of endorsement and the good people of his district will see to it that he gets it.

Considering the primary source of Judge Thurman's opposition, which has its origin in a personal grievance resulting from the exercise of the god given right of free speech, honestly made at a public meeting, and from a decision which he rendered honestly and impartially under the law, we feel that it is wholly unworthy, and will be repudiated by a large majority of those from whom its promoters are looking to for support. The real friends of an honest cause will be slow to pursue a course that will ultimately reap for them the bitterest regrets.

The Road To Success

has many obstructions, but none so desperate as poor health. Success today demands health, but Electric Bitters is the greatest health builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, purifies and enriches the blood, and tones and invigorates the whole system. Vigorous body and keen brain follow their use. You can't afford to slight Electric Bitters if weak, run-down or sickly. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Haydon & Robertson.

WOOL GROWERS

To Be Organized at a Meeting at Elizabethtown on April 15. Call is Sent Out.

State Headquarters, Ky., State Union A. S. of E. Calhoun, Ky., March 24.—To all members of the above named society in Kentucky who are interested in the production of wool:

Please take notice that in accord with a resolution adopted at the late state convention held in Madisonville on January 14-15 it has become our duty to call a convention for the purpose of organizing a Wool-Growers department of the American society in Kentucky, said convention to be composed of delegates selected from the several county unions of the state, and in counties having no county organization, locals may send delegates, number of delegates, however, to be on same basis as is provided for the convention, A. S. of E.

By authority vested in us as outlined above, we hereby call said convention to meet in Elizabethtown, Hardin county, on Thursday, April 15, at 10 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of organizing such wool growers' department, and for the transacting of such business as pertains to the full purposes as are set forth in the foregoing.

Respectfully,
J. C. CANTRILL, Pres.
S. P. ROBERTSON, Sec'y.

At the above named time and place, the state union A. S. of E. are called to meet for the transaction of important business, pertaining to the organization work, and other matters that may come before the board at that time.

J. C. CANTRILL, Pres.
S. P. ROBERTSON, Sec'y.
Ky., State Union A. S. of E.

Mercer County.

(Democrat and Herald.)

Dr. J. M. Munday, one of Mercer county's oldest and most prominent physicians, died Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock at his home in the Shaker Bend vicinity, after a lingering illness of cancer of the stomach and liver. Dr. Munday had been in declining health for several years, and for the past five or six months had been failing rapidly. A short time ago he went to Lexington to consult a specialist, but was little benefited. His death did not come as a surprise to those who were acquainted with his illness.

Last week two little children of Mr. Huston Grimes, in the Salvisa neighborhood, were standing before an open grate and one, while trying to warm her doll, caught on fire and was badly burned before she could be rescued.

Harry Adkinson headed a posse that went to the mountains last week and destroyed one of the largest illicit stills ever captured in that section. A large number of moonshiners were caught dead to rights operating the "plant" and were taken to Louisville and placed in jail.

The whisky warehouse of Wiley Searcy, proprietor of the "Old Joe" distillery, in Anderson county, burned Monday morning, destroying about 2,800 barrels of whisky, aggregating a loss of something near $225,000 of which the United States Government sustained about $150,000, and the remainder, $75,000, by Mr. Searcy. The origin of the fire is unknown. This is one of the oldest distilleries in the country, having been established in 1818.

Captain Cam King, one of the cleverest and most accommodating conductors on the Louisville Southern, had a call for a physician on his train the other day. An old darkey had gotten aboard at Salvisa and soon fell asleep with his mouth wide open. A mischievous drummer came along, and, having a capsule of quinine in his pocket, he uncorked it and sifted it well on the old negro's palate and the root of his tongue. The old darkey, awaking, became much disturbed. He called for the conductor and asked: "Boss, is dere a doctor on dis here train?" "I don't know," said the conductor. "Are you sick?" "Yas, sah; I shore am sick." "What is the matter with you?" "I dunno, sah, but it tastes like I busted my gail."

Kentucky.

Its history told in brief by the gifted pen of the late Senator Carmack is a striking portrayal, true, beautiful and pathetic of life past and present in the old Commonwealth.

"The State of Kentucky has had a strange eventful history. It has veered between the early colonial ideal and the nineteenth century jag. It is the home of soaring metaphor and sour mash. It has known war and it has been acquainted with peace.

It is responsible for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and the long procession of Little Evas. It is the teeming mother of beautiful women and the nurse of warlike men. Its history has been decorated with the mountain vendetta, the lively and deadly "infaif", the tollgate rebellion, and others too numerous to mention. It is the State where preachers who do not believe in hell are razed into better frame of mind and another country. It is the Commonwealth that gave Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis to the nation, an it is responsible for Mary Anderson, Henry Watterson, Hez Lung, Wat Hardin, Pottsey H. Grube and many others that have sent their visiting cards into the temple of fame. It has seen life in all its phases, and through it all has taken its medicine, as Jack China takes his liquor, straight and without batting an eye."

Sunday School Institute.

Mr. L. P. Leavell, of Oxford, Miss., was in Springfield on Saturday and Sunday and conducted a Sunday School Institute at the Baptist church. Mr. Leavell is one of the leading Sunday School experts of the United States, and those who attended received practical suggestions and inspiration which will be of untold benefit to the Sunday Schools of the town.

The service which probably attracted most attention was on Sunday night. At that time the speaker told, in a most fascinating manner, of the adult movement in Sunday School work. He showed that the leading professional and business men of our land are in the Sunday School, and that the old conception of a school as merely a place for children had passed away and that it is now looked upon as a place where the entire membership of the church is enlisted in the study of the Bible. The services were all well attended and very helpful.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. W. T. Adams died at her home in Fenwick, March 28th, 1909, after a few days illness of pneumonia. She was 68 years of age and all that knew her loved her. She leaves a dear husband, five daughters and two sons, and three sisters and four brothers, besides many friends and relatives to mourn her death.

Funeral services were conducted at her home Tuesday morning by Rev. Williams. The remains were laid to rest in the Bethlehem cemetery.

Thou art gone our precious mother
But thy children love thee still,
Never in our hearts another
Thy beloved place can fill.

Every path thy foot hath trodden
To all thy children is hallowed ground
And we feel our spirits sudden
As each new memento is found.

E'en the Book of books is dearer,
And the place and hour of prayer,
Heaven itself to us seems nearer;
Now, dear mother, that thou art there.

Oh! that we again may meet thee,
In that brightest world above;
When thy joyful spirits greet thee,
In that eternal home of light and love.

Home of love where Jesus reigneth,
Light of the Eternal Day;
There will vanish all that paineth, thee,
And God shall wipe our tears away.

Rummage Sale.

A sale, a sale, a rummage sale;
Come let us tell you a wonderful tale.
The Ladies' Aid, of the Christian church,
Have started with a jump and a lurch,
We will have for sale, both old and new;
Things to suit everybody—things to suit you.
The first week in May—come and see
For yourself;
Ransack the counters, inspect each shelf,
House-cleaning time will soon be here,
Save us the things too good to burn,
So many of them will go to turn—
Into money—don't you see?
And very thankful we will be,
Cakes, and candies, too, you can not pass.
A box for each laddie, a box for each lass,
So come and see us, at our headquarters new,
And a very glad welcome we will give to you.

Sayings and Doings Gathered From Our Exchanges Over The State.

To get good and do good is human; to be good is divine.—Kind Words.

New plea for any prisoner at the bar: "Judge, I'm as innocent as the Standard Oil Co."—Chicago Blade.

Unless you have a reputation as a fighter, you can not afford to pose as a peace-maker.—Glasgow Times.

A woman is like a newspaper, inasmuch as every man should take one and not be running after his neighbor's.—Kentucky Red Man.

Spring cleaning time has come—
It's the saddest of the year;
The wives do all the work and
The husbands—shed a tear.

It is awfully hard for a man to look sad when his wife is making preparations to spend a month in the country.—Glasgow Times.

When you are telling how little others amount to, does it ever occur to you that you do not amount to a great deal yourself?—LaRue County Herald.

Little drops of water, little sprigs of mint, and some cracked ice with it and some whisky in't, help to pass the summer in a pleasant way—help to bring a headache at the dawn of day.—Houston (Texas) Post.

A Louisiana negro has been indicted for manslaughter because he twisted a mule's tail. The same mule threw another negro riding him and so high his neck was broken when he hit the earth.—Glasgow Times.

The great Holstein cow, Colantha 4th's Johanna, last year completed a record, having given over 27,000 gallons of milk and over 1,248 pounds of butter in 365 days. And to think the average year's yield per cow for the United States is only about 130 pounds.—Kentucky Farm.

Two ladies of Winchester have each a bottle of wine nearly 100 years old, which has been handed down from one generation to another with the request that the seals be not broken.—Winchester Democrat.

The husbands of the ladies mentioned by the Democrat are evidently aboard the water wagon.

Prof. Scherffus, of Lexington, has accepted the offer of the British government and will supervise the raising of tobacco in South Africa. He will get $5,000 per year and transportation. He will take with him Otto Chisholm, a student at State College from Taylor county.—Winchester Democrat.

Pure white sugar has been in use for such a long time that few persons of the present generation remember when it was otherwise. However, the law decrees that it will have to be changed. Yellow sugar without adulteration, or whitening process, will take the place of the beautifully colored white sugar. The prospect is that the people of this county will soon be using granulated and other sugars of a distinctly brown or yellow hue.—Richmond Register.

Miss Alice Lloyd, one of the most brilliant, sensible women in the bright galaxy prominent in our beloved State to-day, a writer of great force and clearness, who has been a great influence in the Equity movement, has temporarily severed her connection with the Burley Tobacco Society and is taking a vacation at her home in Mason county. Her splendid services and able writings and addresses in behalf of the cause she so earnestly espoused have won for her a place scarcely short of the niche of fame and made her the object of admiration of a multitude of honest, earnest, hard-working people.—Falmouth Pendletonian.

Woman's Home Companion For April.

The Woman's Home Companion for April is full of Easter suggestions, spring fashions, Easter entertainments and Easter dishes. Grace Margaret Gould describes and illustrates the new styles in gowns, shirt waists, hats and in dress accessories. Fannie Merritt Farmer, the greatest cook in America, gives the recipes for many delightful spring dishes. It is a big magazine, crammed full of interesting articles, stories, illustrations and valuable information. Maxine Elliott tells how she built her theater in New York. Dr. Woods

Hutchinson gives expert advice on what to eat in the spring. There is an interesting article on the Emmanuel Movement, entitled "How Psychotherapy Works." Prof. Frank A. Waugh explains "The Foundation of Good Gardening." We are told how to make window and porch boxes for plants. A milk expert tells how to make sure that milk is clean.

Cyrus Townsend Brady's new novel, "Hearts and the Highway," is begun in this issue of the Companion, and there are stories by Nellie L. McClung, Laura Spencer Porter, Izola Forrester and Florence Morse Kingsley. The illustrations, as usual with Woman's Home Companion, are by well-known artists, and are of the very best.

Public Sale of Lumber

Monday, April 5, 1909,
AT 2 P. M.

at the bridge at Fredericktown, Ky., we will offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, the lumber in the two spans of the large Wooden Bridge across the Beech at Fredericktown, Ky. There is in this bridge about of magnificent Poplar Lumber, of large sizes and long lengths, and several thousand feet of fine poplar boxing, in fact it will be an opportunity that will not be presented again in this section of the State for purchasers to procure such a quantity of high grade seasoned poplar lumber. Each span will be offered separately and then as a whole as it now stands, and then by measurement, after being taken down and placed on the ground at the bridge site. We will at the same time receive propositions and bids for taking down the structure.

100,000 feet

Terms made known on day of Sale.

couragement of the people but their active co-operation.

Considering the population and the taxable property of this county there are but few in the country that can compare with it as to roads and pikes. Unless the people co-operate, however, with the officials, and every man who can do so bids for the work on his section it will not take many years for the roads to deteriorate very materially. The appropriations are being, and no doubt will be, judiciously expended, but they are not adequate for the work unless the people assist.

The question of better roadways is one of the leading questions of the day. Good roads mean not only a better county, but are a comfort to the traveling public and to bring the question nearer home mean a great advance in the value of property. Washington county land is just beginning to command its real value and with improvements in roads the farming land will continue to increase in value.

The Sun is interested in Washington county and hopes that on April 7th every man who can bid for the road contract on his section, or sections, and feel that it is his duty to assist the officials in overcoming difficulties and improving conditions rather than in abusing them for the existence of conditions which unaided they can not rectify.

VALLEY HILL.

Mrs. A. R. Shultz, of Springfield, and Miss Miranda Tucker were guests of Mrs. M. Reed Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucien Pinkston and Annie Tatum, of this place, visited relatives at Poortown Monday and Tuesday.

Everett Pinkston sold a driving horse to Robert Thompson last week for $90. Mr. Robert M. Thompson has engaged all of the wood in this section to be delivered at the station here.

L. M. Gregory, of Pleasant Grove, was in our midst Tuesday on business. Mrs. William Goodlett, of Hardesty, visited relatives here Tuesday.

Mrs. W. F. Moran visited Mrs. T. A. Tatum, near here, Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza Mitchell, of near Polin, visited her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Williams, who is quite ill again of lung affection, from Thursday until Sunday.

Mrs. Paralee Hardy, of Louisville, continues the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. C. Tatum.

Mr. Robert Snider is quite ill at his home here suffering from general debility.

Robert, Vivian and Bradley Tatum were guests of Willie Moran at Elm Hill Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cutsinger, of Mooresville, visited relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gostley attended church and visited relatives at Camp Ground Sunday.

Mrs. Evan Sales and little son, Rodman, of near Mackville, visited her niece, Mrs. J. B. Williams, of this place, Saturday and Sunday.

Hunter Gostley was a guest at Elm Hill Sunday.

Jas. Moran and G. C. Donahoe attended church in Springfield Sunday evening.

Miss Piety Barber, of St. Catharine, visited her parents here from Friday until Monday.

Mr. Sutton and wife, of near Willisburg, visited relatives in this section Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Barber leave this week for North Carolina, where they expect to visit several points of interest, among them being Lake Toxaway, Biltmore, Hendersonville and Asheville. Mr. Barber and wife will be at Hendersonville principally, where they expect great recuperative power from that celebrated Blue Ridge Mountain breeze so famous as a restorative to those suffering lung and throat affections.

Mrs. M. Reed and daughter, Mrs. Benedict James, of this place, visited relatives in Springfield Monday.

School opened here Monday with Miss Pearl Gostley as teacher. She has a large number of pupils enrolled and doubtless her efficient teaching will result in a very satisfactory term.

A petition will be circulated throughout this section for the re-opening of a post office at this place, which was discontinued when Route 1 was established. The proposed new postmaster is at present agent for the L. & N. here.

LOCUST GROVE.

Vol. 1, No. 1, of the A. S. of E. News has reached this office and is a bright and new sheet. While devoted to a great measure to the Burley Tobacco Society news, it also contains much of general interest and should at once take a prominent place in journalism in this State and throughout all tobacco sections. It is a twelve page, four-column paper, handsomely printed and ably edited. We welcome the new paper to our exchange list and wish it unbounded success.

Mrs. G. D. Robertson is busily engaged in training the cast for the play which will be given at the Opera House on the evening of Easter Monday. Mrs. Robertson has had quite a good deal of experience in getting up plays all of which have been very successful and enjoyable and this is expected to be exceptionally good. Another pleasing feature will be the music to be furnished by the orchestra recently organized. The proceeds of the play will be used for the improvement of St. Dominic's cemetery.

The Republicans of Washington county met in convention at the Court House Saturday afternoon to select delegates to the District Convention to be held in Lebanon to-day. W. F. Grisgaly called the convention to order and was made permanent chairman, while J. T. Prather was elected secretary. The Committee on Resolutions, consisting of Geo. W. Colvin, W. P. Scruggs, Walter Horse, John Dennis, G. C. Wharten and Merritt Hunsate, reported after a brief recess. The resolutions commended the Republican State administration and recommended Hon. John W. Lewis, of this county, as the nominee for Circuit Judge.

The District Convention is in session at Lebanon to-day and the tip is that Mr. Lewis will be nominated for Circuit Judge and Hon. Hal Graham, of Greenburg, for Commonwealth Attorney.

=More Rice

Many millions of people make it their main diet—and they are healthy people. Rice has more nutrition than bread, and tastes better for a change. Did you ever try it with your macs and gravies? Most rice eaters use it that way and like it, but it must be GOOD RICE. There are as many kinds of rice as there are of coffee. We specialize a good rice and sell more every year. Try some of ours and perhaps you will get the "rice habit." It will be good for you.

Chestnut Dare!

No. 3290. FOALD 1900.

This horse again showed his superiority over other Stallions last year in his own class and in sweepstake classes, defeating all the prominent Stallions in the adjoining counties. One of his winnings was the $100 sweepstake, defeating eight entries of first-class horses. He and his colts also won the Ford ring. It's becoming stale to repeat, that not one of his colts of five seasons have ever been defeated by the colts of any horse owned or farmed in this county. Special rings of colts of other horses, claimed by some to be the best in the State, have been shown, but not one of these has ever won a tie, blue or red. All familiar with his breeding know he has more high price colts already to his credit than any horse now in the county and yet a young horse. Chestnut Dare combines the blood of the Chester Dares and Chief families. He is sired by Chester Dare 10, 1st dam by Red Chief, 2nd dam by Black Hawk Chief, 3rd dam by Brinker's Drenon.

Noble Denmark

No. 2640

This handsome and handsomely bred colt will serve a limited number of mares at

$20 TO INSURE A LIVING COLT.

He is sired by the great show horse and breeder, Highland Denmark; 1st dam a State Fair winner by the Championship saddle horse, Thornton Star; 2nd dam by the Show Stallion, Art Rose by Artist and out of a Montrose mare. This Stallion is not only well bred, but a fine individual, proving himself a winner last year as a two-year-old; also as a yearling. He has great action for a youngster, a good step and the making of a great saddle stallion. Considering the breeding qualities of both his sire and dam and his own finish and conformation, he is sure to rank among the best as a sire.

Hackney Boy

Hackney Boy is a sorrel 16 hands high, a horse of good conformation, large flat bone and one of the Hackney type. He is four years old and his first colts are all good. He is sired by "Old County Member, 1st dam by Von Moltke, 2nd dam by Varick. He will make the season at

NOVEL IDEA FOR WORK-STAND.

Simply Made, Useful, and Arranged to Occupy Little Space.

Those industrious people who always have large pieces of work on hand will appreciate the ingenious idea shown in the accompanying sketch, which gives a suggestion for a simply made work-stand, which can easily be folded up into quite a small space, and put away in a corner when not actually in use. The stand itself consists of a small clothes-horse, which can be stained or painted in any pretty color to harmonize with the decoration of the room. The bag for work is made in silk or brocade, and tied at the four corners with loops and bows of satin ribbon. The loops are slipped over the posts and keep the bag in position. It will hold any kind of household mending that may happen to need attention, while the home dressmaker will find it very convenient for the reception of a blouse, or a dress bodice. When not in use, the screen can be folded up and all the loops hung together from one of the posts. Put away in a corner, even when it is folded up, it will be quite a decorative piece of furniture, especially if the wood be enameled white, and a piece of rose-colored or pale blue silk used to make the work-bag, and tied with ribbons to match.

For a workroom, where appearance is not a matter of importance, a bag made of canvas, with loops of braid at the corners and an unstained clothes-horse, will answer the purpose, and may be arranged and placed in position with little trouble.

KEEPING BABY RIBBON RIGHT.

Simple Washable Case That Will Solve Many Problems.

The girl who knows how disreputable baby ribbon can become unless daintily cared for will welcome a simple, washable case that can be made in a few minutes.

A somewhat large embroidered handkerchief with a border running around it was cut in half, each piece making a case. The half was turned up so that it folded in thirds, with the outer side coming down as a top, or cover.

The part cut in two was finished with a narrow hem and the ends were finely overcast together. The case was then divided into five compartments, three smaller ones, one on each end and the third in the middle, and two larger spaces between. These latter were made big enough to hold a bodkin run through the card on which the ribbon was wound.

Small cardboard reels were made to fit each compartment. These were slightly curved on each edge to keep the ribbon from slipping.

The advantage of such a case is that it is quickly laundered and takes up no room in a bag or trunk. If intended for a present, each reel can be filled with a piece of baby ribbon in different colors, the bodkins can be of silver or different colored ivory, and a tiny pair of scissors can be attached to one of the reels. These make inexpensive and pretty trifles for a set of prizes or as a ready seller at a bazaar.

Gowns Cost Less.
There is one thing to be said in favor of the expensive materials woven for gowns this season: It takes little of them to make a frock.

The total cost of the gown is not much over half what it used to be when a great deal more material was needed of every kind. The scanty one-piece frock, with its seam up the back and front, is not over two yards around on the floor.

The bodice is merely a few inches of black lace edged with velvet. The sleeves are long in the day frocks and do not amount to more than four inches in the evening ones.

Black Lace Sashes.
Now that sashes are accepted, the designers are ingenious in their uses of new materials. All kinds of ribbon have been employed and the latest thing is black lace edged with velvet. Wide Chantilly lace is used because of its graceful design, and it looks well over white satin gowns and those of dull pink and blue.

It is bordered with two-inch velvet ribbon or bound with piece velvet of drapery, with or without a stock, draped round the figure in folds, then fastened at back in the center or at the left side under an antique buckle.

From this float out two ends much wider at bottom than top.

Transformed Frocks.
This year the fancy for net and chiffon overfrocks makes it very easy to transform the painfully familiar frock into a new affair; and if one can afford an overfrock of one of the gorgeous sequined stuffs, which are now the rage, the better. Never was there such a craze for scintillating effects. Cloths of gold, silver and the coppery chiffon—or with sparkling beads and faceted jet ornaments and fabrics by the yard so wrought with colored sequins that the effect on the figure is as a coat of glittering mail, all vie with one another to make the modern ballroom fairly dazzling to the eyes.

Beat It!
Said an angry young swain to his maid,
As home from the party they strayed,
"I wish you would turn down Ed. Bidde;
I don't want to play second fiddle.
Her reply made him feel very glum.
She answered: "All right; play the drum!"
—Judge.

At the Railroad Restaurant.
The Man—Have you dusted the pies this morning?
The Boy—Yes, sir.
"Have you sifted the sugar?"
"Yes, sir."
"Have you limbered up the meat sandwiches?"
"Yes, sir."
"Well, come and help me blow through this macaroni!"—Yonkers Statesman.

No Plagiarist.
"Great Scott, man, here you've got half a dozen novels, two French comedies, a book of epigrams, one of proverbs and several volumes of anecdotes on your writing table! What on earth are you doing?"
"Writing a new and original play!"
—New York Herald.

Paradoxical as It May Seem.
"Get up, Henry," called out the boy's father from the foot of the stairs, "or you'll be late to school. It's after seven o'clock."
"Gee!" grumbled the small boy. "It gets late awful early these days!"

NOTES FROM MEADOWBROOK FARM By William Pitt

Give the breeding mare exercise every day.

Prune the vineyard at once if you have not already done so.

Muslin fronts for the chicken houses are winners. Try one.

Alfalfa or clover hay is good for the brood sow. Give her all she will eat up clean.

Sheep will feed together better and fatten more evenly if they are uniform in character.

During the winter months be sure that your poultry have all the grits they need.

Guest-work methods are the greatest curse to the farm, and explain more failures than any one thing.

Better prices do not make better butter, but better butter will always tend to boost prices. Try it.

Spring is upon us. Get all the odd jobs out of the way before the regular spring rush begins.

Hens do not like to scratch in wet litter. See that everything is dry as a bone and snug as you can make it.

Put wheat bran and middlings in a box where the calf can get at it. She will soon learn to eat it and it will be better for her to get it in this way than to give it to her in the milk.

The increase in the average yield of corn per acre last year amounted to but three-tenths of a bushel per acre, but in the aggregate it meant an increase of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the farmers.

Handle the cream and do your butter making away from the odors of the kitchen. Nothing absorbs the odors so quickly as cream and butter, and the poorly flavored butter does not sell well or bring a good price.

Make a chicken roost out of the discarded wagon wheel, after removing the spokes, which would prove too cold a thing for the hen's feet. Such a roost is economical of space. It can be suspended from the roof.

The squealing pig is entering protest about something. Find out what it is. If cold, provide better shelter. If hungry, increase the feed. The squealing pig brings small profit to its grower.

Caustic potash rubbed well upon the little knobs where the horns of the calf will grow will prevent development and will save dehorning later. The treatment must be given during the first two weeks, however.

For some reason thick sour skim milk seems to have a greater value for hens than sweet milk. This may be due to the milk sugar not being digested and assimilated by fowls, or possibly, the lactic acid which is present in sour milk may have an especially beneficial effect. More experimental work is needed to clear up this matter.

Alfalfa is a crop worth striving for. Plan for a start this year. Alfalfa wants a dry, sweet, rich soil and underdrainage seems to help any land for this crop, as does also the application of lime. Four tons to the acre has been found, none too much, and it will not grow on land destitute of lime. The land must be clean, so mid-summer sowing on land that has been harrowed over and over to kill weeds brings best results. Some have made the mistake of cutting too soon and too often. The crop has been killed by cutting too soon, and cutting should not be done until after the young suckers are well started from the crown.

It is a well-known fact that a fruit tree will set more fruit than it is capable of supporting and bringing to perfection. Prof. Sandsten of the Wisconsin experiment station suggests that to aid nature in its work growers should take away the extra fruit. The vitality of the tree is used up by the number of seeds it is permitted to ripen, not by the size of the fruit. It is readily seen that by removing some of the fruit we conserve the fertility of the land, as well as aid the tree to properly mature the remaining fruit. A tree that has thus been thinned will bring forth more fruit in bushels than other trees; and, besides this, the fruit from thinned trees is superior in color, size and quality. Such thinning should not be done, however, until the natural drop of the fruit is over.

Use system in your poultry management if you want to know where you get off at, and want to show a profit.

Brutality towards the cows cuts down the milk yield and robs a farmer of his profit. Be sure your help is not abusing the faithful animals.

A good ventilating system in the cow stable would prevent dampness and keep the hay from spoiling in the loft.

The scientific farmer has found that the hog gives better returns when housed and fed in cleanly manner. Fifth never did man or beast any good.

In fattening chickens for market keep in rather a dark room where they cannot see other chickens at large, and where dogs or cats cannot disturb.

Fairly good work may be done with poor tools, but how much easier and better work could be done with good tools. The best are none too good for the farm.

Dead Sheep or Live Ones?—Teacher—"How many legs has a sheep, Johnny?" Johnny—"Dead or alive?" Teacher—"Is it not the same thing?" Johnny—"Oh, no; there is a big difference. A live sheep has four legs, a dead sheep but two. The others are shoulders."

The reason sows eat their pigs is in most cases due to the fact that they have been kept too much on one ration before the litter came. Give a variety of food, especially during the last two months of the period, and you will not be likely to have any trouble with the mothers eating their offspring.

Let quiet prevail in the stable at milking time. Don't get the cow to stand over by giving her a kick or a jab with your fist. Place your hand, on her flanks and tell her to get over in a kindly voice. Unless she is spoiled by brutality she will do it and do it willingly, for she wants to get rid of the milk in her udder as badly as you want to get it.

Millet is good for the laying hens. Beans are equally beneficial. Sorghum and broom corn seeds will do to add variety to the bill of fare. Barley is about of the same merit. Popcorn contains more nitrogen and phosphates than does the regular Indian corn. Buckwheat is an egg-producing food, but must be fed sparingly, as it is overfattening.

The apple tree needs care like other fruit trees, if it is going to do well. The old idea that once planted it should be able to care for itself and bring forth an abundance of fruit can no longer be maintained, since such a method is neither economical nor business-like. Fruit trees of whatever kind or nature need as much, or more, care and attention throughout the season as any crop grown.

Mange is easily cured, and for this reason should never be permitted to exist among farm animals. Rub oil of tar one ounce, and whale oil two ounces, or one-half pound each of tar and sulphur, and one pound each of soap and alcohol. In all cases boil all blankets and treat with a strong solution of caustic potash all woodwork, harness, brushes, combs and whatever is possibly affected with the germs of mange.

Encourage the cats to stay around the barn by giving them a little milk night and morning. The farmer who begrudges them a little milk at milking time is stung by the fellow who stopped the clock at night to save the wear and tear on the machinery. The cat's system needs milk when it is catching and eating rats and mice. If cats are given milk regularly at the barn, there they will stay, and where they stay you won't find many rats or mice. No farmer can afford to raise grain at present prices and feed it to rats, so be good to the cats.

The best ration for the beef herd is not the best ration for the milk cows. Cows about to calve should be fed on succulent food, such as silage or roots, bran, oil meal and oats chop, but omit the corn at this time. Feeding grain of any kind just previous to or immediately after calving is not very good policy. Keep the bowels in good condition. After calving feed a warm mash, and give warm water to drink for a week or ten days. As soon as the cow has dropped the calf she should be watched carefully, and after she has made its toilet remove the calf from her stall, but keep it in sight until the milk comes in the udder, when the calf should be allowed to suck.

Rhubarb wanted for very early market can be secured by digging the roots with the first thaw. Make a frame or open box four by six feet and 18 inches deep, spread a load of fresh horse manure on the ground, cover with earth to the depth of six inches and plant the roots. Set the frame over them and bank to the top with earth and sawdust or sawdust all around, cover with boards and as old the tree to properly mature the remaining fruit. A tree that has thus been thinned will bring forth more fruit in bushels than other trees; and, besides this, the fruit from thinned trees is superior in color, size and quality. Such thinning should not be done, however, until the natural drop of the fruit is over.

Millinery Showing!

The Public is Cordially Invited To Attend The Display of Entire Stock of Millinery Saturday, April 3rd.

Will have on display a very beautiful line of the latest Millinery Novelties.

..Miss Willie Knott..

—Mr. W. D. Claybrooke was in Danville on business the first of the week.

—Mr. J. A. Roby, of Lebanon, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. H. P. McChord is the guest of the family of Mr. W. T. McElroy.

—Mr. James McLaughlin, who has been in the U. S. Navy for two years, arrived yesterday to pay a visit to his mother, Mrs. Lizzie McLaughlin. Since his enlistment in the Navy Jim has made a trip around the world, having been on the Battleship Vermont, which was in the fleet under command of Admiral Evans and later Admiral Sperry and which returned to the United States only recently after the most remarkable voyage in naval history. Mr. McLaughlin will be here until April 21.

GASBURG.

Mr. Nevitt has moved his saw mill here and is doing some first class sawing.

Rev. Lancaster filled his regular appointment at Hardin's Creek Baptist church Sunday. A large crowd was present.

Mr. Frank Miles is dangerously ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jas. Kidwell.

Dr. W. F. Trusty and children, of Springfield, spent Sunday with Dr. Wright's family.

We are glad that Mr. Ed Hamilton has returned to our neighborhood. We are always glad to have back our old neighbors and talk of the happy times spent together.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. Owen Mattingly, of Loretto, Sunday night and took therefrom the wife and mother. She had been in ill health for some time and death came to release her from her suffering. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at Smock's Chapel, after which interment occurred at that place. She leaves a husband, three children and one sister, besides a host of friends to mourn their loss. To them we extend condolence.

Mr. Stanley Cabbel, of Lebanon, was here Sunday afternoon.

Among those who attended the sale of C. S. Smock Wednesday from McIntire were Messrs. T. E. Ballard, Bud

Badgett, Frank Keene and J. C. Ensor. Dr. S. J. Smock was in our midst one day last week.

Mrs. Maggie Miles, of Raywick, was called to the bedside of her son, Frank Miles, on last Wednesday.

Mrs. Russell Corbett has returned to her home near St. Catharine.

Several from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. Mattingly, last Tuesday.

We regret that Mr. C. S. Smock and his estimable wife have moved to Lebanon with the expectation of making that city their future home. He was one of Gasburg's most valuable and highly respected citizens.

Master Ben Kelly, of Springfield, was the guest of his uncle, Will White, Sunday.

Mr. Tatum has moved to the farm formerly owned by C. S. Smock. Prof. H. Hoek, of Lebanon, will join him in a short time.

Mr. Abe Greenwell, of Chicago, was the guest of Mr. J. L. Ball Friday. Little Henry, Bessie and Lucille McClain visited their aunt, Mrs. Bettie Spalding, Sunday afternoon.

TEXAS.

Mrs. M. E. Drane is very ill at this writing.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Y. Hatchett arrived home Monday after several days visit to friends and relatives at Tatham Springs.

Messrs. Adkinson and Burns of Indiana were the guests of their uncle Mr. C. Adkinson recently.

Mrs. F. I. Purdon is very low with consumption.

Mrs. Emily Powers still remains very ill.

Mrs. Effie Buck has returned to her home in Perryville after a visit to Mrs. Leon Bradshaw and the Misses Whayne of this place.

Mr. Eugene Campbell had the misfortune to dislocate his shoulder just one day recently. We are glad to report him doing nicely.

Mrs. Nancy Cocanougher, of the Long Run neighborhood, is the guest of Mrs. R. L. Arnold.

Mrs. Adams died at her home at Thompsonville Monday, the 29th. Her remains were interred in Bethlehem cemetery at 11:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning, March 30th.

Hear Brook Curry's Statement About This Horse.

Sanbreaker in condition, is really a great show horse. He is good gaited, good headed, don't pull, don't hit, loves company and is perfectly mannered. He will race right where he has a trial, has a perfect disposition in and out of the stall. Over the road he is perfect, afraid of nothing, easily controlled, perfect manners and a nice smooth pliable horse in every way, bred in the best lines and should prove a good stock horse. Brook Curry trained this horse last season and sent him the above trials. He thinks he could have driven him in 2.12. He loves company and I regard him as game a horse as I ever drove. Think him a great prospect over any kind of track.

SAN BREAKER will make the SEASON of 1909 at the Springfield Fair Grounds at

$20 TO INSURE A LIVING COLT.

I am also prepared to handle horses. Rates reasonable. Your patronage solicited.

BOHON LUCAS.
